Dogtown Station's Newest Resident, Dylan McDermott, to host AWOL Artist Reception at the Venice loft

April 15, 2010

Entertainment Desk

Venice, CA – Actor Dylan McDermott, star of Dark Blue on TNT and the hit series, The Practice, will be hosting AWOL (Always West of Lincoln), an invitation-only artist reception to be held May 8th at DogtownStation in Venice. McDermott recently announced that he is moving his production company, D26, into a 2,000 square foot, 2-story loft at DogtownStation, in Venice.

"Venice is the new creative hub. I am very excited to move my production company to DogtownStation. The live/work loft space is perfect for our needs" said McDermott.

AWOL is a walking exhibit of recent paintings by high profile artists Andy Moses, Caroline Jones and celebrity painter Danny Maltzman, a group exhibit from the well known William Turner Gallery, as well as works by photographers Cerreah Laykin and Cynthia Heimbold. The show will be exhibited in six of Dogtown's lofts, opening May 8th and closing May 23rd, with the Venice Art Walk. Architecturally unique with creative, dynamic open floor plans, Dogtown Station Live/Work lofts have attracted a number of high-powered individuals in the entertainment industry. In addition to Mr. McDermott, Dogtown Station residents include a screenwriter, a playwright, an independent movie producer, a special effects editor, and a music manager.

These stunning lofts are located at the heart of Venice, on Main and Abbot Kinney, just two blocks from the beach.

Each unit is architecturally unique with creative, dynamic open floor plans, polished concrete and hardwood plank flooring, atrium style high ceilings, gas fireplaces, glass walls which flood the interiors with natural light, and private rooftop decks with panoramic views of the LA skyline and the Pacific Ocean. Dogtown works with each of their clients to customize their lofts with design consulting, and interior design services. The lofts range in size from 1,350 to 2,500 square feet.
